Medical Communications

Hi, I'm Kate Matthews. Thanks for visiting my website!

Have you ever wished you could find someone with versatile medical writing skills who specialized not only in the field of orthopaedics and medical devices but also had experience creating content and training for pharmaceutical companies? Look no further! Taking complex sets of notes and data and turning them into clear, concise, and easily understood forms of communication is something I've always enjoyed doing.

I have 20 years of experience working in both the medical device and pharmaceutical industries, including clinical, regulatory, medical writing and publication planning and am a published author of several peer-reviewed medical journal articles and book chapters. I also have experience as an educator and have taught medical writing at the Medical University of Innsbruck, Austria.

During my career, I've had the privilege of collaborating extensively with domestic and international surgeons and researchers to publish abstracts, peer-reviewed journal articles, and books about surgical techniques, clinical results, and laboratory testing. I've also created product and compliance training courses, product and patient brochures, and written literature reviews and other content for Clinical Evaluation Reports (CERs).

I am a board-certified editor in the life sciences (ELS) and an active member of the Orthopaedic Research Society, the American Medical Writers Association, the European Medical Writers Association, and the Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society (RAPS).

If you would like to learn more about me or see a list of my publications (published under the surname of Sutton), please visit my LinkedIn page.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Kind regards,
